Classroom Rules

Respect the teacher, your classmates, and yourself
Be on time and prepared for class
Be responsible and honest

All ALCS rules will be followed and enforced in the classroom. Failure to comply with all the rules will result in disciplinary measures as appropriate according to the discipline matrix.

Missing time from class for any reason is discouraged. Locker and restroom use will be permitted at appropriate times under the condition that these privileges are used responsibly. Abuse of privileges will result in the loss of privileges.

Absent? Each student is responsible for contacting Mr. McClelland to discuss what material was missed, and what actions must be taken to make up the work and class time missed. It may be necessary to stay after school for instruction. Use teacher websites for information and resources. Set up a time to see me if needed.

Homework/Schoolwork will be updated on Teams. Students should keep a personal agenda for all assignments, both short and long-term.

Student Laptops MUST be charged and updated for class. We will use the laptops often so they should be brought to class each day. A phone does not suffice as an appropriate substitution. Failure to bring a charged laptop to class will not extend due dates of assignments.

Laptops are a viable option for researching any information needed online. Therefore, phones are not required within the classroom. Phones should remain in your locker or facedown on your desk during class time and should not be used for any reason. Phones should only be used with special permission from the teacher. If a student is not able to comply with the rules, they will be required to turn their phone in to the basket at the back of the room each day.

Class Materials:

-laptop and charger	-2'' 3 ring binder
-composition notebook	-headphones
-loose-leaf paper	-binder dividers
-pencils/pens (blue or black)

If there are questions about an assignment, please message me on Teams or email me at rmcclelland@alcsny.org
